In this free, public lecture, Gael Rhyder will share the inspiration behind their exhibition, Mouth of Many Mothers. Gael will speak to their experience as a new birthing person. The work of this exhibition is to give voice to the experience of being a womb bearing person and the weight of transformation as an act of survival that is only relieved by rebirth. Each crocheted piece in this exhibit has been reborn of reclaimed fibers, to honor Mother Earth and the abundance she provides. Connecting one end of discarded yarn to another to form a whole new body out of what was left to stagnate keeps the creative river flowing.
